Victor J., also known to his parents and friends as Victor Hanson Jr., was born and raised in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. (The Jane-Finch area to be exact.) As Victor says: "Living in this part of Toronto, you either grew up as a fighter, or someone that could joke their way out of a fight... I'm still a lousy fighter."

Victor started out as a serious guitarist... serious? Yea right! Always finding more satisfaction in making the audience laugh as opposed to putting a serious song across. In High School his band "Winchester Quill" had the reputation to rock and create loads of laughs. He later played lead guitar in a band that performed in the Canadian Country Music scene, performing with Country Music acts such as Tim Taylor & Anita Perras, The Family Brown, Marty Robbins, & The Oak Ridge Boys... Adding humour to every show, much to the chagrin of other band members.

After a couple of years on the road he decided to hone his comedy further. He came back to Toronto, & sold his 1976 Malibu to help pay for acting lessons that included The Second City Improv. Always using his musical talent to enhance his comedy, Victor formed the Musical Comedy duo Men Without Hairs, (with a CD release appropriately called, Laugh. Victor says it was a million seller... Yea, I still have a million in my cellar!), and later, another duo, this time of hilarious Comedic Improv proportions called, The Pudgy Boys! (Victor, how do you come up with the names for your acts?... Simple, I just look into the mirror.)

His current two person Musical Comedy Show is called "Laffs & Lyrics". It's with the very talented Diane Carter, and is taking North America by storm.

He has performed across Canada, Aruba, Bahamas, Jamaica, Mexico, & the United States including Caesar's Palace, in Las Vegas.

When Victor J is not performing as a Headline Act for the Holland America Cruise Lines, his one man Comedy Show performs at high profile Corporate functions across North America.

Victor J. is in great demand as a Professional Host Comedian for many Public & Corporate shows that need to get their message across in a professional and fun manner. Custom Corporate Comedy... This is his forte.

Victor J. currently lives in Canada with his lovely wife, and two cats that leave their hair everywhere (that's the cats, not his wife.)
